New Books

JACK, at the AFA, sent me a pile of new books, so I spent the week ploughing through them. I read 'em so you don't have to!

The best were two reprints, both of which I had previously overlooked:

Now That I've Cast It, What Do I Do With It is the lament of many budding astrology students. The freshly calculated chart is in front of you, you know all your planets and signs and houses, but how, dear lord, do you make any sense of it? Maxine Taylor comes to our rescue with a concise, deftly written minor masterpiece. She's been over this so many times it's burned ruts in her brain. The cookie-exchange, plop-down-in-your-lap party analogies for aspects were drop-dead fabulous. Learn her Basic Sentences approach (not that different from my own) and you will never be at a loss when you look at a chart. I gave it a gold star.

Also getting a gold star was the AFA's reprint of Donna Van Toen's 1980's classic, The Mars Book, A guide to your personal energy and motivation. First published by Weiser in 1988 and revised to an unknown extent, this is a curious hybrid. We have what was expected: Mars through the signs and houses, in aspect to other planets, all of which Van Toen carries off quite well. Then we get into a series of chapters which are more or less based on the traditional house by house chart analysis. Chapter 2, Mars and Your Love Life, is Mars and Venus, by sign and house, relating specifically to relationships. Chapter 3, on Occupations, are delineations of Mars in signs, as they relate to occupation, and Mars-Saturn aspects. Chapter 5, Mars and Luck, is Jupiter by sign and house, another set of Mars by sign and house, this time with an emphasis on luck, and Mars-Jupiter aspects. Further along there are sections on interceptions and retrogrades. I wish I had paid more attention to this book when it was first published years ago, I am happy to have it back. You will be, too.

Among the also-rans, Garrett's Health and the Horoscope was a near miss. Another three books from the Huber school, which I like less and less, a reprint of June Wakefield's Cosmic Astrology, which is seriously dated, and a reprint of Jung and Astrology, by Howell. Enjoy!

ASTRO A to Z MED

FROM C.E.O. CARTER'S ENCYCLOPAEDIA

Obedience is generally regarded as a Taurine virtue and may often be observed in Virgo, this being the sign of the servant or server. In the former case it must be surmised that, in lower types, the docility is largely due to mental and physical lethargy; in the case of Virgo, a sign which is preeminently aware of its own strength and weakness, there is a liking for detail and great patience in carrying it out, and the native gladly leaves general control to others if he can thereby secure quiet for his own task.

A sense of military discipline, or discipline in action, is probably due to good Mars-Saturn influences. Both Venus and Jupiter have also an instinct for harmony and order, social and otherwise, which disobedience would destroy. "Obedience is the bond of rule" are the words of a poet with Venus rising and Jupiter in the 3rd.

Neuritis. Malefic afflictions to Mercury, especially from Mars or Uranus, and involving 29° Leo-Aquarius, are very liable to cause this complaint. — Encyclopaedia of Psychological Astrology.

With Moon: Worry, loss and gain of friends through criticism, danger of accidents and by water, bad for gain.

With Mercury: Many accidents and narrow escapes by water, many enemies, trouble through writings, bad for health and domestic affairs.

With Venus: Evil environment, suffering through own acts, danger of imprisonment or restraint.

IVY'S GEM OF THE WEEK

My Notebook for Venus

VENUS is the natural ruler of the 2nd House which has to do with precedent, custom and tradition, thus it rules heredity; what you bring into life with you and find easiest to express; in other words, talents and innate abilities. She is also natural ruler of the 7th House which has to do with co-operation, cohesion, harmony and peace. Also, she is exalted in the 12th House of enforced submission, obedience and self-abnegation and indulgent pity for human frailty. All of these attributes, including the talents, will be expressed in life through the Sign and House she is in at birth to the extent that she is well aspected.

1. If Venus is not afflicted by the conjunction or bad aspect to Saturn, she is not limited in expressing and enjoying her talents as she wishes. Otherwise she must express her submissive side and accept limitation, renouncing something of the house she is in and still counting her blessings which she does readily.

2. Where you have this "lesser benefic" you will be desirous of co-operating, being obedient to what may be required for the well-being of the people of that house. Venus agrees quickly and is the great reconciler, bringing peace to that department, healing or mending breaches, unobtrusively sharing what she has to give, and always improving the conditions there.

3. Venus rules all kinds of trimmings: lace, braid, ribbons, and especially fringe. Thus she not only grants the good of the house she is in but also what may be called "fringe benefits" or an added benefit. — Here and There in Astrology, 1961

RUSH LIMBAUGH

RUSH LIMBAUGH is a serial slanderer. Parents, don't let your kids grow up to be serial slanderers. Rush has slandered so many over the years, it's hard to imagine that Sandra Fluke would be the one to bring the party to an end, presuming she has.

Rush Limbaugh was born January 12, 1951, at 7:50 am, Cape Girardeau, Missouri. The source is said to be the late Lois Rodden herself, which makes the data AA, presumably from one of her spies in Jefferson City, MO. who actually saw the birth certificate.

Rush has 0 degrees Aquarius rising, and because Aquarius makes his Venus in the first house so wonderfully tacky, I'm going to go with Aquarius, not Capricorn, as his ascendant. (Capricorn was only four minutes earlier.) Ruler Saturn is retrograde in Libra in the 8th. My sense of Saturn in 8 is greedy. In Libra there are relationship factors as well, so I look at the cusp of the 8th: Virgo. That's Mercury, which is already part of the ascendant (Mercury is exalted in Aquarius). I now look at the 5th: Gemini, as I would expect. Bounce over to Mercury, which I find in Capricorn, retrograde. It is supposedly in the 11th, but shares the same sign as the cusp of the 12th, which is only four degrees away. In the 12th it will be hidden, and, per Robson, will not hear clearly. (Limbaugh has in fact gone deaf.) Retrograde, it's fighting against that. Sort of like finding yourself on the down escalator when you wanted to go up instead.

Venus in Aquarius in the first completes the initial picture. A retrograde Mercury ruling 5th is traditionally a liking for sex with boys. Mercury ruling the 8th reinforces. Venus in bizarre Aquarius, Aquarius on the ascendant, in mutual reception to Saturn retrograde in Libra in the 8th, Rush would appear to be a closet homosexual.

A mere mutual reception, Venus to Saturn, does not indicate gay. Capricorn to Libra, for example, makes one studied and serious and formal and stiff — and luckless, alas! — but not, by itself, gay. Taurus to Capricorn is dull and dense and earthy, but not, by itself, gay. Taurus to Aquarius, that's leaning gay. It's the Aquarian factor that makes Venus-Saturn mutual receptions gay. Aquarius wants to be different. Aquarius acts out. When its ruler is in one of Venus's signs, being gay is an easy way to act out. Anything else would take real imagination. Most people don't have a lot of that.

I know we're supposed to tip-toe and only speak of gays in hushed, reverent whispers, but "gay" is just another chart attribute. Just as you can be born gay, you can be born a cavalry officer or a portrait painter.

So I went to Google and I entered, "Rush Limbaugh gay." Up popped a dozen websites that claimed exactly that. So the chart has led me to the same conclusion that others have gotten through hearsay and observation. Remember, parents, don't let your child grow up to be a slanderer. The hearsay about such people!

SINCE I'm on the "gay thing," is Aquarius a gay sign? No. There is no such thing.

However, the same is not true for the twelve Great Ages, the 2000 year epochs. This is because the Ages, unlike the signs in your horoscope, run full throttle. Every age comes complete with its ruling planet, its exalted planet (if any), and its planets in fall and debility. All at once.

So, for example, the recently completed Piscean Age (ended in 1913) came with Jupiter, the ruler, Venus, the exalted planet, and Mercury, the planet in fall. So of course the Piscean age as a whole was chaotic, as Pisces is naturally unstable. It was religious, because Jupiter is religious. It was artistic, because Venus loves beauty. And it was stupid, because Mercury, the planet of intelligence, was added. So dumb that nearly 1600 years after its official start, a notably clever man dropped balls off a big tower in Pisa to see which one would land first. Not a sign of intelligence!

The Aquarian age, by contrast, is ruled by Saturn. Mercury is exalted. The Sun is debilitated. Saturn's rulership of Aquarius is different from its rulership of Capricorn. In Capricorn, Saturn is a strict taskmaster. He punishes you today for the sins you were thinking of committing tomorrow. In Aquarius he lurks in the background and pounces at the end to punish you for all the sins you really did commit.

Lacking his constant pressure we think he's gone away for good and act out. Rather like a 20-something who's not yet experienced his first Saturn return.

Part 85:

Love and Marriage

Time of marriage, female:—

CONSIDER the sign positions and aspects of Sun and Mars. If strong, unafflicted, and in fruitful signs, and also if the Sun is strong and between 1st and 10th, or 7th and 4th an early marriage may be expected; but if in barren signs, or afflicted by Saturn or Uranus, or if Mars does not aspect Sun, or if Sun is between 10th and 7th, or 1st and 4th, marriage is delayed, or in some cases the partner is elderly.

Several marriages are denoted by the Moon (or Sun) in fruitful signs, or in Gemini or Sagittarius aspecting many planets; Gemini, Sagittarius, or Pisces on 7th or containing several planets, or lord of Ascendant in 7th aspecting lord of 7th in Gemini, Sagittarius or Pisces. In such cases there is often a malefic in the 7th or one afflicting the marriage significator denoting the death of the first partner.

The partner is described by the planets to which the Moon (or Sun [female-Dave]) next applies by strong aspect after birth, together with planets in the 7th or its lord; but any planet in strong aspect to the Sun or Moon has some significance in the matter. It is generally considered that application should be as shown in the ephemeris and not as in directions, namely both bodies should be considered as moving instead of one being fixed. The successive applications of the luminary concerned denote the various attachments formed, marriage occurring with that person whose significator is strongest. Application to retrograde planets usually denotes broken attachments, but sometimes separation from, or the death of, the partner, especially if the planet rules the 7th. The appearance and character of the partner are denoted by the sign containing the significator and the aspects to that planet . . .

From Christian Astrology, by William Lilly

Whether one absent be dead or alive.

IF a Question be demanded of one absent in a general way, and the querent has no relation to the party; then the first house, the Lord of that House and the ☽ shall signify the absent party; the Lord of the eighth House or Planet placed in the House or within five degrees of the Cusp of the 8th House shall show his death or its quality.

In judging this Question, see first whether the Lord of the Ascendant, the ☽ and the Lord of the eighth House or Planet in the eighth house be corporally joined together; or that the ☽, Lord of the Ascendant and the Lord of the eighth are in opposition either in the eighth and second, or twelfth and sixth, for these are arguments the party is deceased, or sick, and very near death.

See also if there be any translation of the light of the Lord of the Ascendant to the Lord of the eighth, especially in degrees deep, lame or deficient; or on the contrary, that there be any translation or carrying the virtue or influence of the Lord of the eighth to the Lord of the Ascendant; or if the Lord of the eighth be placed in the Ascendant, or if the Lord of the Ascendant and the ☽ be placed in the fourth house, these are testimonies the party absent be dead.

If the Lord of the Ascendant be separated from a bad Aspect of the Lord of the sixth, you may say the absent has been lately sick; if from the Lord of the eighth, he has been in danger of death, but is not dead; if from the Lord of the twelfth, he has been lately much troubled in mind, in fear of imprisonment, arrests, &c. if from the Lord of the second, he has been hard put to it for money, or in distress for want; if from the Lord of the seventh, in some quarrel or contention. . . — Christian Astrology, Book II, by William Lilly.

Is This You?

Libra rising
The Aquarius
decanate

Appearance of the second decanate:

THE drawing depicting this decanate gives the short Libra neck and high shoulders associated with this sign. The Aquarian aquiline nose gives initiative and combativeness. The narrow hips are also Aquarian, resembling the Libra decanate of Aquarius. Men born under this decanate, however, have wide hips as a rule, as was the case of Napoleon (who also possessed the Aquarian aquiline type of nose). Hitler has the wide-hipped male Libra figure, but his nose is more Taurean, his ruler, Venus, being placed in that sign.

The Aquarius decanate of Libra is ruled by Saturn, which gives considerable success, often followed by a fall through lack of balance. The inner nature is somewhat aloof, owing to the Saturn influence, early poverty and family frustrations. Nevertheless, the ambitions will not be realized without the support of others; usually an alliance of business or emotional partnerships in succession, rather than friendship with several people at one time. — Man and the Zodiac, by David Anrias

So in the Aquarian Age, we act out. Being gay is just another way to do that. Mercury, which has no sexual preference, makes us Unisex and thereby muddles distinctions. Females who are masculine. Men who are kind and sensitive. Women who wear trousers. Men who wear drag. Mercury also makes us clever, more so than intelligent. The Aquarian Age, with its debilitated Sun, makes men, who are ruled by the Sun, weak and effeminate. In Aquarius, males fail to be fully masculine. This is simply a trait of the age, but it is a trait which strands women, who, by contrast, have not been emasculated. It's not so much that they can't find a straight man, but that they can't find a good one.

Contrast this with the other great gay age, which, oddly enough, is Aries. In Aries, Mars rules, the Sun is the co-ruler. Venus and Saturn are debilitated. Aries is a hyper-male age in which women — Venus — are excluded. Males consort with each other, women are ignored. Which you can read in Ptolemy.

UNLIKE heterosexuality, homosexuality has various signatures. Mercury dominant gays prefer boys to women. (Mercury always has an aspect of youth about it.) Why, exactly, is this? Because when the two Mercurial signs are found on the sex houses, 5 and 8, Mercury has to deal with sex. Whatever planet rules the sex houses has to deal with sex and will do so to the best of its ability. In an intellectual chart (Mercury strong by sign, house and aspect) Mercury will study and research and intellectualize sex. Alfred Kinsey, Masters and Johnson, me, etc.

In lesser charts Mercury will give a focus on youth and children, which, as Mercury is not fussy about sex, can be either for boys or for girls. The choice is determined by the sex of the sign Mercury is in, and by any other factors as come to hand. In Limbaugh's chart, Mercury is in female Capricorn, it is retrograde, which makes it retiring (which is a female trait, by the way), it is in a Saturnine sign which makes its proper work onerous and hard and which encourages it to find shortcuts, and it is leaning towards the 12th, a female house, where it can hide. When you see these factors, you judge the native acts, not as a man, but as a woman, and, Mercury signifying youth, chases boys instead of girls. Charts with strong 8th and 12th houses, or cadent placements (3rd, 6th, 9th, 12th) will tend towards the closet and no amount of outing will change that.

This is particularly true of Mercurial sorts. Gemini is two faced and naturally leads a double life. Virgo can never be clean enough and so will not want to be shamed or soiled. Mercury has an affinity for two of the four cadent houses. It's not that cadent houses want to hide, but that they have a hard time expressing themselves. Easier to be a recluse. If you're a gay recluse, you won't want the attention of a formal, gay marriage.

Acting out is another gay stereotype, one that involves hard aspects between Uranus and Venus, very likely with one or both angular, where the result will be on display. In Limbaugh's chart we note that Venus and Uranus are inconjunct (a weak aspect), but while Venus is angular, Uranus is hiding in the 6th. No acting out. Note that Venus has no rulership of the sex house cusps, the 5th and 8th. Uranus can't make Venus act out sexually if there's no place for Venus to do that. In Rush's chart, it's the Venus/Saturn mutual reception that contributes to his homosexuality, not the Venus/Uranus inconjunct.

The "power gay" has Pluto in aspect to Venus, or Mars. Rush has Mars/Pluto opposed, which is an aspect of absolute power, but not sexual power per se, since Mars, like any other planet, can only work through the sign and house it is in, and the signs and houses it rules. In Rush's chart, that's the third house with Aries on the cusp, which is bold, forceful, powerful speech, and the 10th, Scorpio, of public intensity. Neither are sexual per se.

So there is the gay who chases after youth, the gay who wants to be bizarre, and the gay who wants power. There used to be a psychological term, "latent homosexual" which was commonly misinterpreted to mean, wanting to be gay, but not having the guts. For example, I found this online:

"Latent homosexuality is an erotic inclination toward members of the same sex that is not consciously experienced or expressed in overt action. This may mean a hidden inclination or potential for interest in homosexual relationships, which is either suppressed or not recognized, and which has not yet been explored or may never be explored in fact."

Aside from being so broad that it includes every man who ever lived (not consciously experienced or expressed), this is entirely wrong. A latent homosexual finds himself in a power relationship with other men. He is trying to be a "super-man," a hyper-male. All men must submit. All women as well. As a consequence, people are terrified of him. My boss's boss, in food service at the University of Kansas in the mid 1970's, was latent. His name was Forrest J _____. My boss told me Forrest berated him intensely for being a wimp, for not being "masculine." There are old ballads of frontier roughnecks who dealt with both sexes and who were, in fact, latent, but I cannot quite remember the names.

In his crudeness, Limbaugh's Mars/Pluto opposition gives him such traits. Sexuality in this context is simply another way of exercising power over others. A latent homosexual becomes “overt” when he forces men to submit to him sexually. Not all latent homosexuals have such an interest.

A great many latents will therefore view gays as weak, effeminate targets of opportunity. As both a liking for boys and the need for power can turn up in the same chart — as with Limbaugh — the result can be someone who consorts with gays in private but who, in public, bashes them — and everyone else. Which makes Limbaugh latent to his peers (men his own age), and gay to younger men he seeks.

ALL of which is a giant diversion from the week’s topic, The Rush Limbaugh Follies. For those who think I am bashing gays, you’re right. I am bashing gays. As a complex, secretive and powerful group with a large public persona, not only can gays use a bit of bashing now and then, but they ought to expect it. Nobody’s sacrosanct.

There are other secrets. Ever hear of the male g-spot? It’s that part of a man that a woman just can’t reach. A gay reminded me of that recently. Some of us were born this way, he said, and then with a confident smirk added, but if mind-blowing sex is what you want, a lot of you can be converted.

Such is the Aquarian Age, with its weak, feeble men. As women in this Age are neither weak nor feeble, we may see an open female vs: gay war for the souls of wayward males. “Marriage equality” is but a skirmish. When a similar choice was put to women 30 years ago (“sisterhood”), they shot it down.

Rush Limbaugh, with his Sun in the 12th, Mercury trending to the 12th, mass market Aquarius on the ascendant, with Venus nearby, is ideal for radio. His try for TV flopped. Aquarius is too bizarre for TV, the Sun in 12 too retiring, Mercury in 12 cannot hear others in the room.

Saturn in 8 makes Limbaugh greedy for other people’s money. Jupiter trying to get into his second means he will spend lots of money (Jupiter in 2 is a spending, not a getting, placement), which will make him feel personally successful, as his Moon is in Pisces in the second and appreciates the volume. The more money Limbaugh spends, the more his Moon likes it.

Drug use is normally shown by planets in the 6th. In Limbaugh’s 6th we find Uranus in Cancer. It is ruled by the Moon in Pisces in the 2nd. So, once he was rich enough, Limbaugh’s tendency was to spend his money on drugs and become an addict.

He is unusually fortunate to have his Moon conjunct his north node. The chart says that as long as the drugs continue, he will be fine, which means the episode in 2003 had a cause.

And it did. In July, 2003, in quick succession, Sun, Mercury, Venus and then Saturn passed over his Uranus, Jupiter conjuncted Pluto and opposed his Mars, and Mars conjuncted his Jupiter.

Sun, Mercury and Venus over Uranus were the sucker-punches, the annual I-have-a-great-idea/lust, before Saturn, following right behind, dealt a massive blow. Limbaugh had a Mars return the previous month, he was energized and ready to go. Jupiter hitting Pluto in 7, there was someone else involved.

AS for his current problems, the ephemeris shows only a Mars station on his 8th house cusp. The chart of the woman he slandered, Sandra Fluke, tells a different story.

Sandra Fluke was born on April 17, 1981. Time and place are unknown, but as she has long been associated with New York, we can take it as a starting point. The chart is strongly polarized between Aries, with Sun, Mars, Mercury in Aries, with Venus at 0 Taurus; and Libra, with Moon, Jupiter, Saturn and Pluto in that sign. There is little to buffer the oppositions. Neptune in Sagittarius makes trines and sextiles. Uranus makes semi-sextiles and inconjuncts. A most powerful, explosive chart. I wouldn’t want to mess with it.

Placing the oppositions (rectifying the chart) should be a relatively easy thing. As Ms Fluke is not already well-known, and as she did not step effortlessly into the limelight when the opportunity arose, we may presume her polarity is in cadent houses. Our choices are 3 and 9, or 6 and 12.

Three and 9 will give a huge intellect and possibly a religious tinge, depending on where the Moon ends up. That’s not her.

Six and twelve will be health and slavery (6) and institutions (12), such as hospitals. Throw in Aries-Libra as a contest between the sexes and you get women’s health issues and that’s her. This gives either Taurus or Scorpio as ascendants. Since she has a neck and has black, helmet-like hair, I’m going to make her Scorpio rising and give her a tentative birth time of 7 pm. When you are rectifying charts in a crude fashion, there is no point in being fussy. Approximations will do, and if you’re wrong, you will find out soon enough. Dare to try something!

Moon in 12, along with Saturn and Jupiter, she keeps her feelings to herself. Moon sandwiched between Saturn and Pluto, those feelings are morose, dark and intense. Opposite Sun-Mars, this is someone who has been hurt, and who has hurt others. Like Limbaugh, she has a powerful Mars-Pluto opposition, but unlike Limbaugh, she has substantial backup firepower as Mars is flanked by Mercury and the Sun, and are in the far more powerful sign of Aries. Will Mars opposite Pluto make Sandra gay? No. Women take up with other women for different reasons, but with massive amounts of maleness in her chart, if Sandra Fluke is a homosexual, and if she was born with 6th and 12th house placements, she is even further in the closet than Rush. As Ms Fluke is not a public figure, speculation is rude and an invasion of her privacy.

If Scorpio is rising, Mars is Ms. Fluke's chart ruler. In the 6th, she would be known for her advocacy of health issues. Which she is.

Comparing her chart to Limbaugh's, they have their Saturns conjunct, one being 30 years older than the other. Fluke symbolizes Limbaugh's Saturn return, which is an unpleasant time in everyone's life. Which is to say that Fluke herself is a transit to Limbaugh's chart, a transit from an unhappy time in his life.

This is another way of looking at relationships. Is your wife your companion, or is she the human embodiment of the transits on the day of her birth? Transit or relationship? Wouldn't that depend on how long the relationship lasts? It would seem that Limbaugh and Fluke had a "one night stand," woke up in the morning and decided they did not like each other. And if nobody had shot his mouth off, it would never have become personal. So what's the difference between a relationship and transit? Transits can't shoot back!

FLUKE'S dual stelliums fall in Limbaugh's money houses. With Fluke's Jupiter-Saturn-Moon-Pluto all in Limbaugh's 8th, the immediate effect of their interaction has been to shut off Limbaugh's source of income. With his Saturn in the 8th, Limbaugh has always been reliant upon others for his money. Money which Limbaugh's Jupiter, not in aspect to Saturn, has always been happy to spend as he saw fit. With the money turned off, Limbaugh will crash through his reserves quite rapidly. If and when he does, it will hit his Moon quite hard, reducing Limbaugh to a little lost boy.

Fluke's Aries stellium falls in Limbaugh's empty 3rd house. The third house is one's daily life. Opposite the 9th house of radio broadcasting, Fluke might actually drive him off the air. It is refreshing to see a chart as powerful as Fluke's.

Parents, don't let your child grow up to be a serial slanderer, for he is sure to some day slander someone even more powerful than he, and that encounter won't be pretty.

Next week, Ludwig as a study in new moons (I've done so many full moons), or maybe, Putting the Enlightenment In Its Place. Which has surprising ramifications. In the meanwhile, I need work. Put me to good use! Anybody want a reading?
